Person 1: Today's topic is about the neighbors you may hate. Are you ready?

Person 2: Yeah, I'm ready.

Person 1: So, do you hate your neighbors and same as from them?

Person 2: Seriously! How could you ask this? No, not at all, I think so.

Person 1: Ah! Got you. What's that "think so" mean, then?

Person 2: (laughs) Not hating, but I don't like them much.

Person 1: But why so?

Person 2: Personally, I have felt that they have more pride in themselves and their family. Once, their fight with the opposite neighbors made a negative impact on them.

Person 2: That's it?

Person 1: Yeah, I think so.

Person 2: Again, "think so"? So you might have anything to express?

Person 1: Hmm, sometimes she would enter our home without asking permission and takes extra advantages while speaking, which makes me a little uncomfortable.

Person 2: Okay, that's a little odd to handle. So what's the final thought?

Person 1: Hmm, "Jesus said love your neighbor (it doesn't mean you should love the neighborhood but should love the people next to you)" (laughs)
